The Impact of Sport Jackets on Adjusting Backbone Vertebraes

Al-Kubaisi, Sara

Bashir, Tamara

The impact of sport jackets on adjusting backbone vertebra during running for the players of speed specialty in the athletics association in 2015-2016 it aims to remove barriers which are hampering the awareness of society , and the constant encouragement of the latest inventions that will be qualified for worldwide use. we are intending to root creativity . we can imagine what you want then implement what you imagine and at last you innovate , and for this perspective we have created this innovative athletic jacket . we adjust the spine while racing to achieve records , to design contestants jacket and develop athletes performance through wearing the jacket for definite distances at a variable time periods .

Awards Won: